JUNIOR CLASS

JUNIOR CLASS

The Class of 1914

IN many respects, the Freshman Class which came to Manhattan in the Autumn of 1910 was like other classes which came before. In its actions, however, there was a determination to work and a desire to accomplish things which soon placed the Class of 1914 in the limelight. In order to become better acquainted, and better to accomplish their ends, the members of the class perfected a class organization, the nucleus of which they found in the records of the previous year's Subfreshman Class. Believing in, and adhering to, the maxim that "We must all hang together, or we shall assuredly all hang separately," they have since pursued the flowery paths of learning in unfaltering fashion. Although there are many individual bright and shining lights in the class, the class is more noted for team-work and all-round work.

The class has from the first maintained its superiority in athletics. During its Sophomore year, it won the trophy for all-round athletics, and during its Junior year, started to annex the trophy as a permanent possession. The class won the 1912 football championship to the tune of Juniors 30, opponents 0.

But athletics is not the only accomplishment of the class members of which are found in every college activity. Seven of the fifteen debaters and five of the eight orators are Juniors. The members of the class have found time each term to steal away from the cares of college life, and regale themselves with a good time. The social events have been varied in their kind, and enjoyed by all. The Junior County Fair was for originality and success the most enjoyable event of the year to all Juniors. It is not our intention or our wish at this time to give a complete history of the class. This will be found in Volume VI. of the Royal Purple.

We have socials every term and we always have a good time.
Our future is bright as we have two untarnished years ahead of us.

WHEN, in the Course of Human Events, it became Necessary for this Great College to open its Doors for the Beginning of another School Year, everyone, even Dean Brink, was surprised at the Remarkable Intelligence of the Freshman Class. We came from all Parts of the Known World with but one Object in View, that of making a Great College Greater.

On the Night of November the Ninth, we met at the Carnegie Library for a very Enjoyable Party. The Next great Event of our Life was the Football Game in which we were defeated by the Sophomores, owing to the Serious Illness of Eighteen of our Best Players, who were stricken with Phalacosis. They recovered during Christmas Holidays, and we came back Strong in the Winter Term with an Ever Victorious Basketball Team. Before the close of this Year, we expect to be Victorious on the Track and in Baseball.

THE Class of 1917, although the youngest of all the organized classes of the Kansas State Agricultural College, has already made some interesting history for itself, and is glad to take advantage of this opportunity to record that history. If in the years to come the heart of a single loyal member of the class is warmed by the perusal of this simple account, the effort will not have been in vain.

The '17s have taken an active part in the various student activities. Along forensic lines their record is already enviable. Three members of the class —Floyd Hawkins, Carl Matson, and Lector Griffin—took three of the possible fifteen places on the Intercollegiate Debating Squad. Two other contestants—Dwight E. Hull, and G. W. Putnam—were honored by admission to the Forum.

In athletics the class has done equally well. Its football team, captained by John Linn, tied the Sophomores for second place in the inter-class games. The class likewise, has a number of promising contestants for honors in basketball, baseball, and track work.

The social events of the class have been two in number. Perhaps the most memorable features of the campfire lunch, given on Mount Prospect in the Fall Term, were the wind-swept fires and the generous refreshments. In the Winter Term, the customary class party was held in Fairchild Hall, and it was a good one.

This brief account is ample evidence that the Class of 1917 is of the progressive sort. May it continue so to be!

THAT one soon loses interest in a thing in which he cannot participate, does not hold true with Hamiltons. Once a Hamp, always a Hamp—one drop of Hamp blood makes a Hamilton forever.

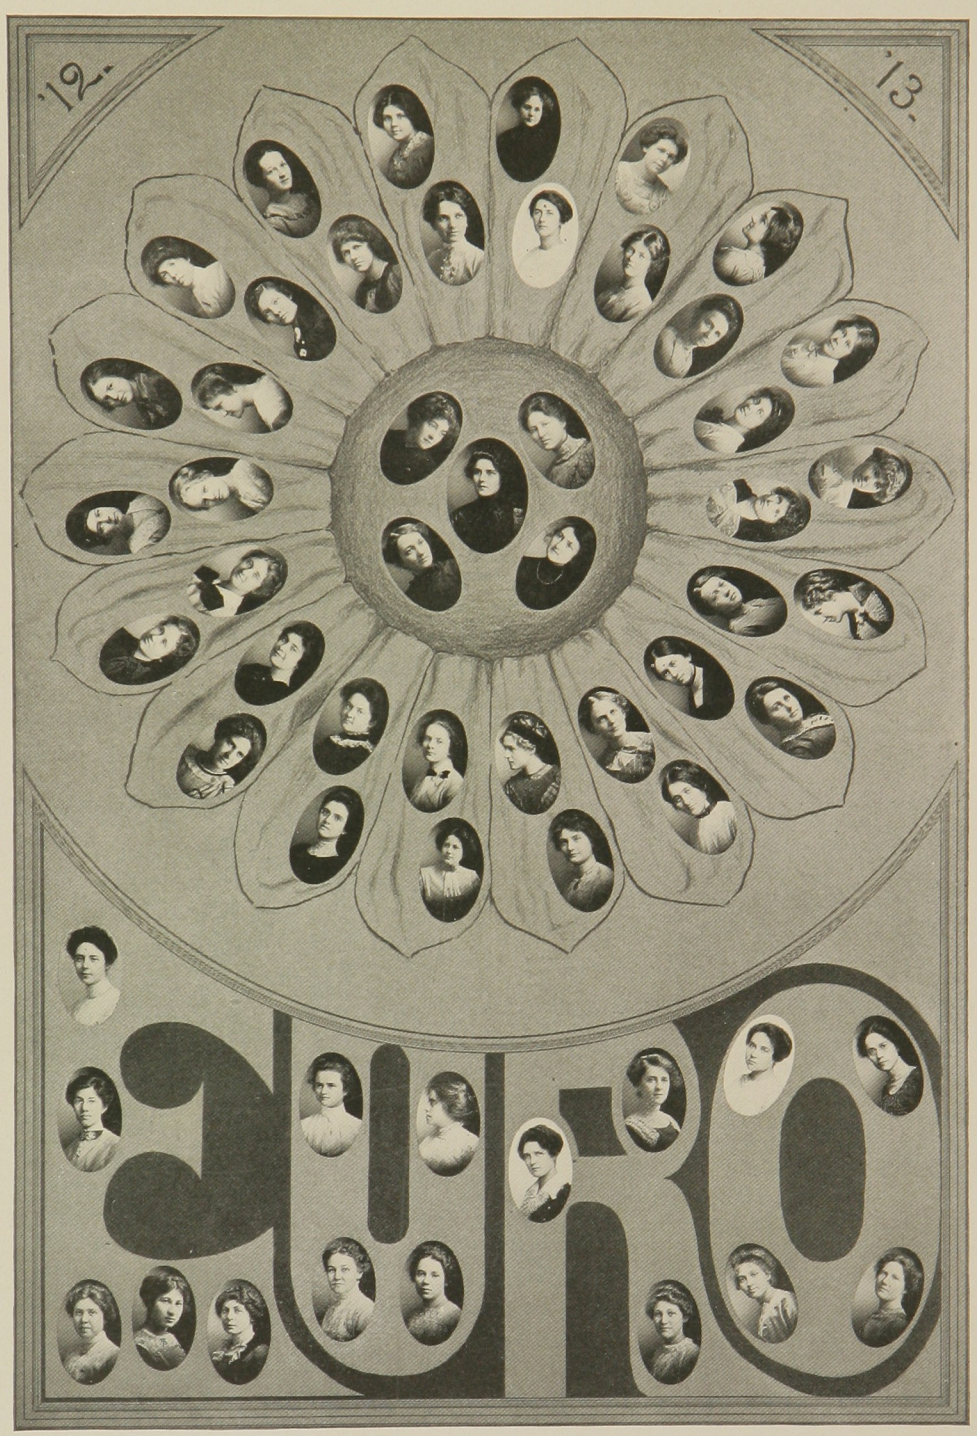

We who have left our beloved Alma Mater think of days spent in "rag chewing" in our Hamp Court. We who are about to leave regret that the parting must come. We who are left behind shall do our utmost to live up to the Hamilton pace.

That "Truth Conquers All Things" may be true, but debating, oratory, and parliamentary practice take workers of diligent nature. That is the key to Hamp spirit; that is the reason for "Once a Hamp, Always a Hamp."

One cannot live down his heart's pride. It is with a feeling of pride that the Hamiltons set these few lines before you, not with an attempt to advertise but as a pass-word coming from the rocky hills of time. "All's well with the Hamps; long live the Hamiltons." Know ye, therefore, most honored alumni, we are holding fast, and waving aloft, as of old, the banner of our Hamilton Lion.

WITH an unbroken existence for forty-five years, the chief boast of the Webster Literary Society is the good which its members, as individuals, have received from the meetings. They are better for the honest work which they have done; better for having been brought shoulder to shoulder with other men. It is work which is practical and which will help men who are trying to do things, make the job a success. Every year there are between twelve and eighteen graduates who in addition to their regular courses have better ideas and keener insight into affairs of men.

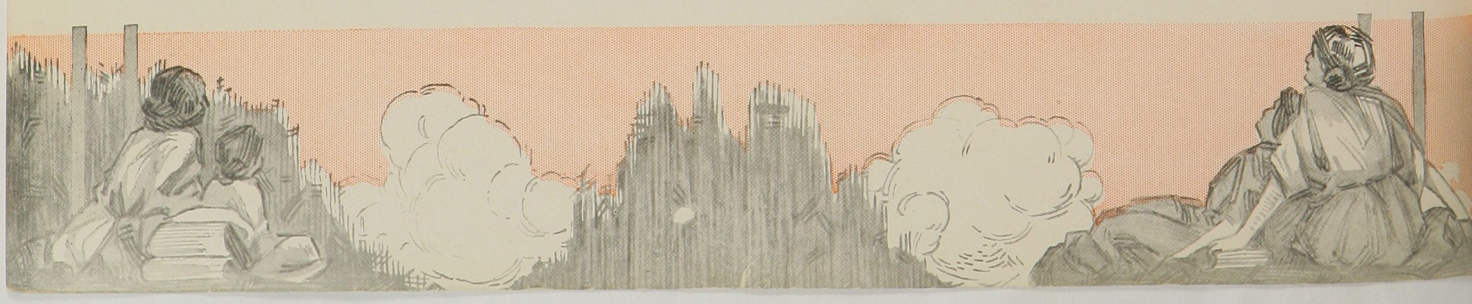

A record of two consecutive victories in the oratorical contest is no small honor. But the Society does not live on victories of the past; it plans for success in the present and future, because that is the only way to make a good history.

The Webster Society, however, is not a place for abstract betterment of the mind alone. The programs are varied and not monotonous. The keen rivalry in business sessions leads to a thorough understanding of parliamentary and business methods. This, together with annual picnics and feeds to promote the social side, results in leaders of college affairs.

THE Athenians placed five men, the highest possible number, on the debating squad in the first preliminary this year. This is a record which no other society has yet reached. The Athenian Society placed three men on intercollegiate debating teams last year. In five contests in oratory it has won first place once and third place twice. The Athenians have a record for efficiency which will be hard to equal.

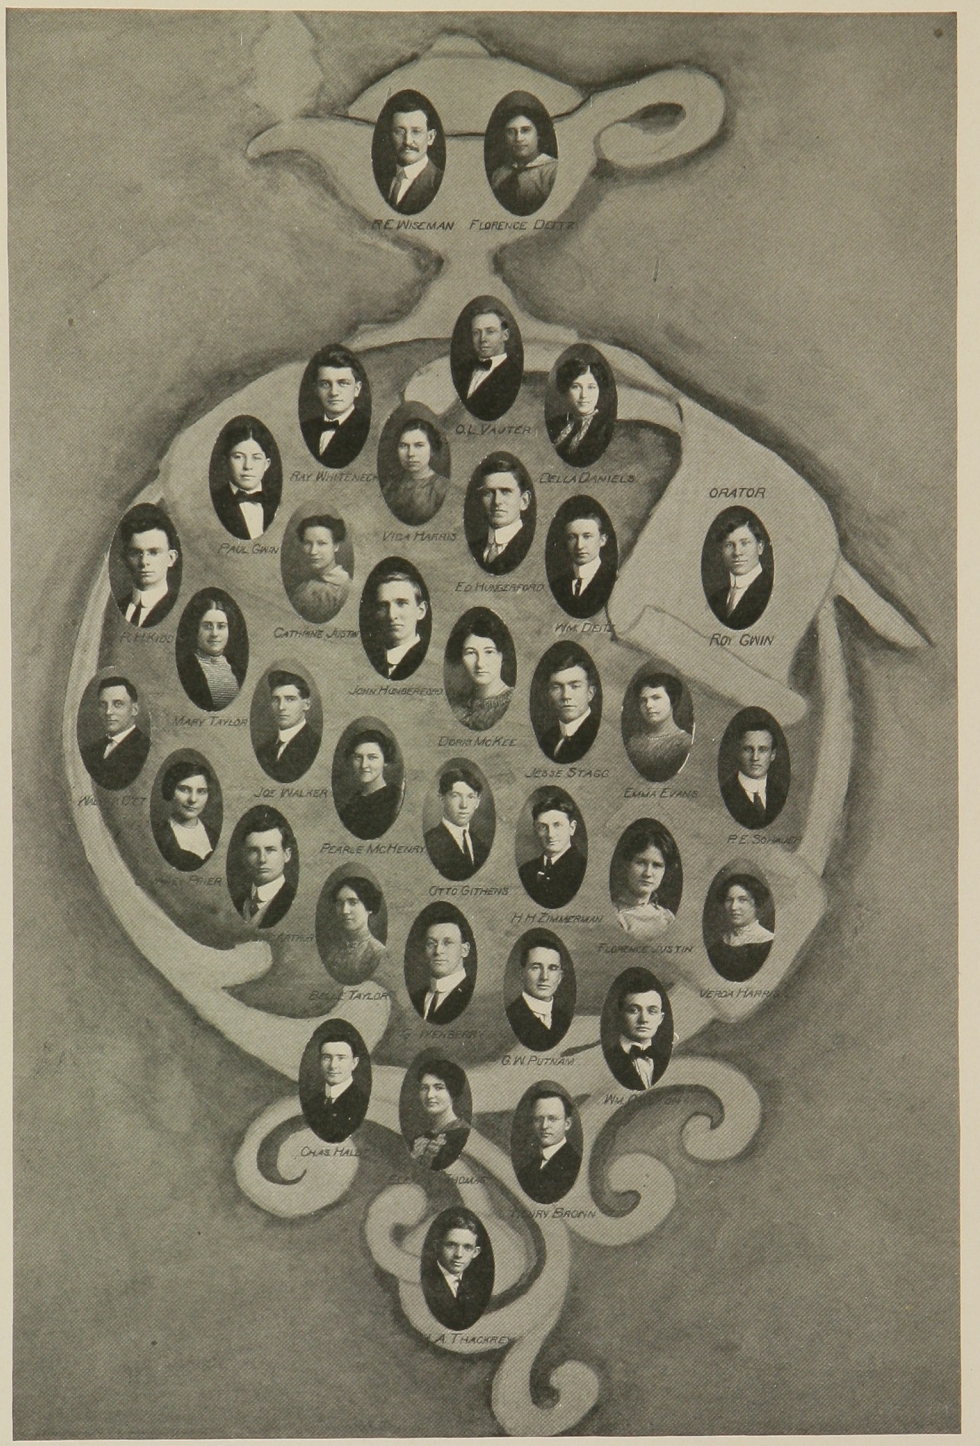

In college life the literary society should give training in oratory, debating, parliamentary practice, and general literary work. There is a demand for these things that the regular classroom cannot fill. The literary societies are particularly the schools of democracy. The Athenians believe that a man's responsibility to his society is second only to that which he owes to his Alma Mater.

Ho, for the Franklins of K. S. A. C.,
Let Truth be our motto whereever we be,
Industry, kindness, and patience and hope,
With every trial will aid us to cope.

Chorus:

Then ho! for the Franklins,
Whate'er our lifework may be!
Then ho! for the Franklins!,
The Franklins of K. S. A. C.!

Oh, that each Franklin as famous might be,
And of as much worth to his country, as he
Whose illustrious name we have chosen to bear,
In whose great discovery all nations share.

Long live the Franklins to brighten the world,
And help keep the banner of justice unfurled,
And when we are weighed in the balance that's true,
Not wanting be found in the final review.

Alpha Zeta

ALPHA ZETA is a national honorary agricultural fraternity. Students in the agricultural courses are eligible when they have shown desirable qualities of leadership; have reached a certain high standard in scholarship, and have completed at least five terms work of their college course. It is the purpose of the fraternity to bring together agricultural students of high ideals and scholarship, and by their association to round its members into more cultured and efficient men. The first chapter was established at the Ohio State University in 1897. There are at present twenty-two charters in the widely scattered institutions in the United States. The local chapter was established March 16, 1909, and has had a substantial and satisfactory growth.

Student's Council

THE Students' Council was organized in the fall of 1909. Its object is to act as a representative body of the students, before the officers of the school, in all matters which concern the students or their organizations. It makes the student rulings and acts as a medium of settlement in difficulties between students.

The Council is composed of one faculty member, four seniors, three juniors, two sophomores, one freshman, and one subfreshman, elected by their respective classes.

The Kansas Aggie

GETTING out a college newspaper, filling it with interesting news written in a readable style, avoiding entanglements with those professors under whom the writers have classes, making the paper pay, going to classes once in a while and doing passable work, is the complex task of the staff of The Kansas Aggie. But while there are disappointments and disadvantages to overcome, the staff of The Aggie, as is the custom of writer folk, never cares to quit the game—unless an election comes along.

The Kansas Aggie is in its eighteenth year. It appeared first as a weekly, later becoming a semi-weekly publication. During the present college year the paper has been published in newspaper form twice a week and has tried to give its readers the news of the school and advance the best interests of the college.

THE cultural side of the architect's profession is one of his chief assets. His ability to associate and be at home with all classes of people often determines his success. To be able to meet with men and women and sell his talent and ability is absolutely necessary. The students in architecture, realizing this, support an organization for developing the social and cultural side of their work, the Architectural Club, which meets every two weeks. Meeting at private residences is encouraged, and Doctor Walters and Professor Harris have been generous the past year in extending such hospitality to the club. The meetings are informal, but the discussions are always of importance. The club affords the only means for the members to meet together and "talk shop."

Dairy Stock Judging Team

THIS is the second year that the college has been represented at the National Dairy Show at Chicago. It is also the second time that a four-hundred dollar scholarship has been awarded to a member of the team.

The team this year consisted of Omer I. Oshel, De H. Branson, and R. O. Swanson. A great amount of earnest work in preparation for the contest was done before the team left for Chicago. Several of the leading dairies of Kansas were visited, and the cattle were studied with special reference to the requirements of the show ring. A week before the contest the team, accompanied by Professor J. B. Fitch, Instructor in Dairy Husbandry, made an extended trip through Iowa and Wisconsin.

Much of the success of the teams both of this year and of last year was due to the excellent and consistent coaching given by Professor O. E. Reed. His work with the boys has proved him a thoroughly competent coach.

The team was in competition with fourteen of the leading dairy states. After the final score was figured up, it was found that Omer I. Oshel fell heir to the four-hundred dollar scholarship offered by the American Jersey Cattle Club. R. O. Swanson ranked first in the judging of Guernsey Cattle and third in Ayrshire, but was unfortunate in that the Guernsey Cattle Club offered no scholarship this year.

Inter-Collegiate Debating

IT was but three years ago that the Kansas State Agricultural College first entered the field of inter-collegiate debate. From that small beginning of one debate, our field has broadened out until this year the debating Squad engaged in six very successful debates. We have succeeded in completing arrangements whereby we will compete with Iowa and South Dakota next year in addition to the contests which we now have. During the past year we debated three questions, and, through the earnest effort of the literary societies and the efficient assistance of coaches J. W. Searson, Carl Ostrum, E. P. Johnson, and J. E. Kammeyer, the following record was made:

Won by Kansas

ON January 28, 1913, the Fruit Judging Team journeyed to Lincoln, Nebraska, to take part in the fourth annual contest in which Kansas has been represented. The team missed first place by five points and second by two. In fact, the score was so close that the first decision of the Judges gave Kansas first place. But, in order to be sure, the Judges went over the scores three times, finally giving Kansas third. Kansas had second high man in the contest. The members of the team were L. H. Swingle, John A. Vohringer, Fred L. Rees, William Sweet, and William Curry.

COACH GUY S. LOWMAN

Athletics

WITHIN recent years the growth of athletics in the Kansas State Agricultural College has more than kept pace with the developments in other departments. Each year the College has been turning out a good team. Immediately after each season the scribes would issue their predictions that the record just made would stand the test of years. The next year would find a better team in the field and new precedents established.

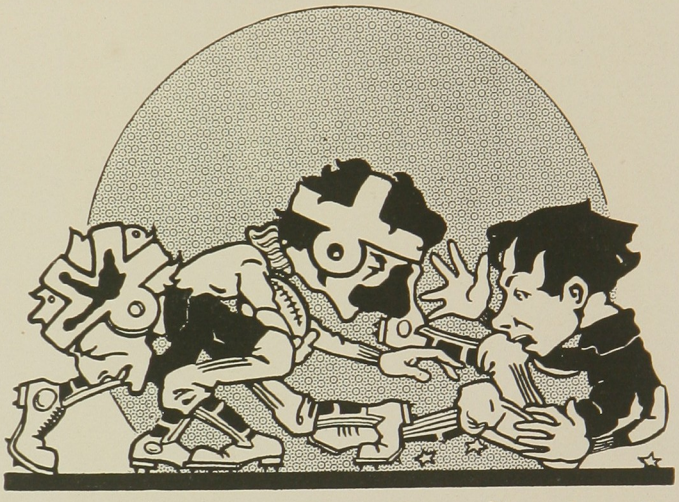

We see the courses of study grow more difficult each year, and we worry a little about what will become of the oncoming generation of students. In the field of athletics we see a better team each year, and we wonder where the historians will search for superlatives to describe new accomplishments.

In the last College year the pupils of Coach Guy S. Lowman have landed the championship both in football and in basketball. Not only that, but they have won with a wide margin over their nearest competitors. The showing of the teams with those of Missouri Valley colleges has been very favorable. In basketball the Aggies won five out of eight Valley Conference games played went through the Kansas Conference schedules in both football and basketball without a defeat.

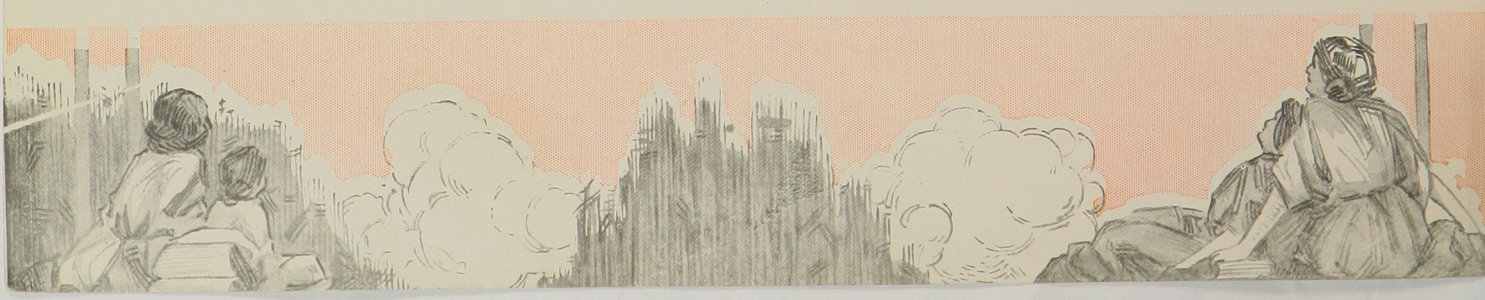

The caliber of the Kansas Aggies has increased rapidly in the last few years, and they do not feel now that they will find themselves outclassed in the Missouri Valley, as the pessimists would have had them believe when they applied for admission. The Aggies feel that their athletic development has reached that stage where they may be championship contenders from the first whistle.

ANOTHER BIG CROP

State Champions

WITH eleven veterans back under the leadership of Captain Felps, Coach Lowman began the football season of 1912 with brighter prospects than he had at the beginning of the 1911 season. Eleven men meant a full team. The coach had but to develop a strong offensive team and perfect his defense.

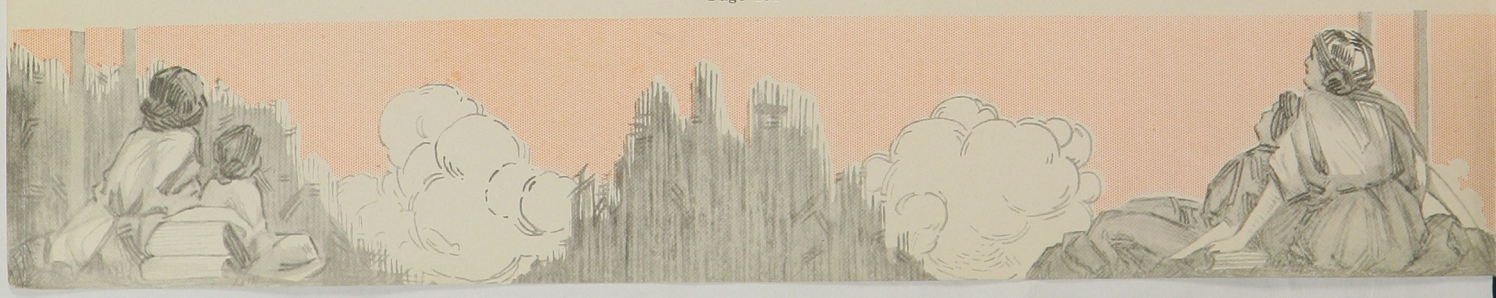

The season began like a hundred yard dash, and the same pace was kept, without a single slowup, throughout the three long months of training. In a sea of mud the Aggies took the opening contest from Southwestern sailing away with a 19 to 7 victory. Trying out the new men by constantly changing the line-up, alone prevented the Lowmanites from piling up a larger score.

October 9 saw the Indian Braves battling with the Aggies for supremacy. The superior endurance and weight of the Farmers won a 21 to 14 victory. The Haskell tribe dealt out the open style of play and treated the fans to the most exciting contest of the year.

For the second time in two years the Aggies met the Missouri Valley Champions on the latter's own field, but, as in 1911, failed to bring home a victory. The best Jumbo Steim would give was the small end of a 30 to 6 score.

With the arrival of Trainer Bryan, the Aggie stock began to climb, and the best the Normals could get was seven points to the Farmers' twenty-two. The following Saturday, to the strains of minstrel music ringing on the K. U. field, the Aggies went down, before the University of Kansas in the hardest defeat of the year. The score, 19 to 6, in no way indicates the closeness of the game. Time and again Aggie rooters were brought to their feet by spectacular plays that looked for the instant like victory for the Purple and White. Seven coach loads of Farmers returned to Manhattan, swearing vengence on the Jayhawkers in 1913.

The third trip of the season landed the Aggie squad in Wichita. After swimming in another muddy field for four periods, they rudely walked away from Fairmount with a 54 to 0 victory. This was the largest score run up during the season. Returning home, they found, on the following Saturday, a crowd from Emporia lying in ambush to cop the state championship. Lowman's crowd slapped them on the wrist and sent them home with seven out of a total of thirty-five points run up that day.

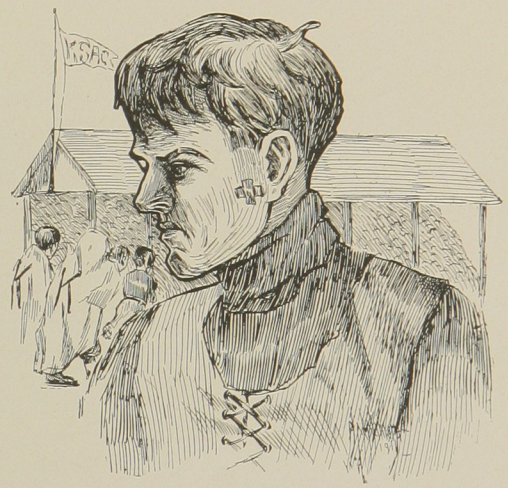

The University of Colorado, touted as some bad team, came from Boulder flushed with the Championship of the Rocky Mountains. The Aggies outcharged these heavy Westerners, and took them into camp to the tune of 14 to 6.

From Texas, the team not only brought back numerous sideline markers and admission tickets, but also the big end of a 13 to 10 score, after one of the hardest-fought battles of the season with the champions of the South, Texas Agricultural and Mechanical College. With defeat almost staring the Kansas Aggies in the face, Prather in the last few minutes of play intercepted and made, according to those present, the most thrilling open field dash ever seen on Kyle Field. It might be mentioned, incidentally, that this was the first defeat the Texans had suffered on their own field in many years.

On Thanksgiving day the Washburn eleven strolled into Manhattan dangling a K. U. scalp on their belt. They were flushed with confidence. The second half began with a three-point lead for Washburn. The Aggies now found their stride and literally tore the Driver defense to shreds. Instead of the Aggie scalp on their belt, they sauntered home to Topeka with three points, while the Aggies stored away twenty-one.

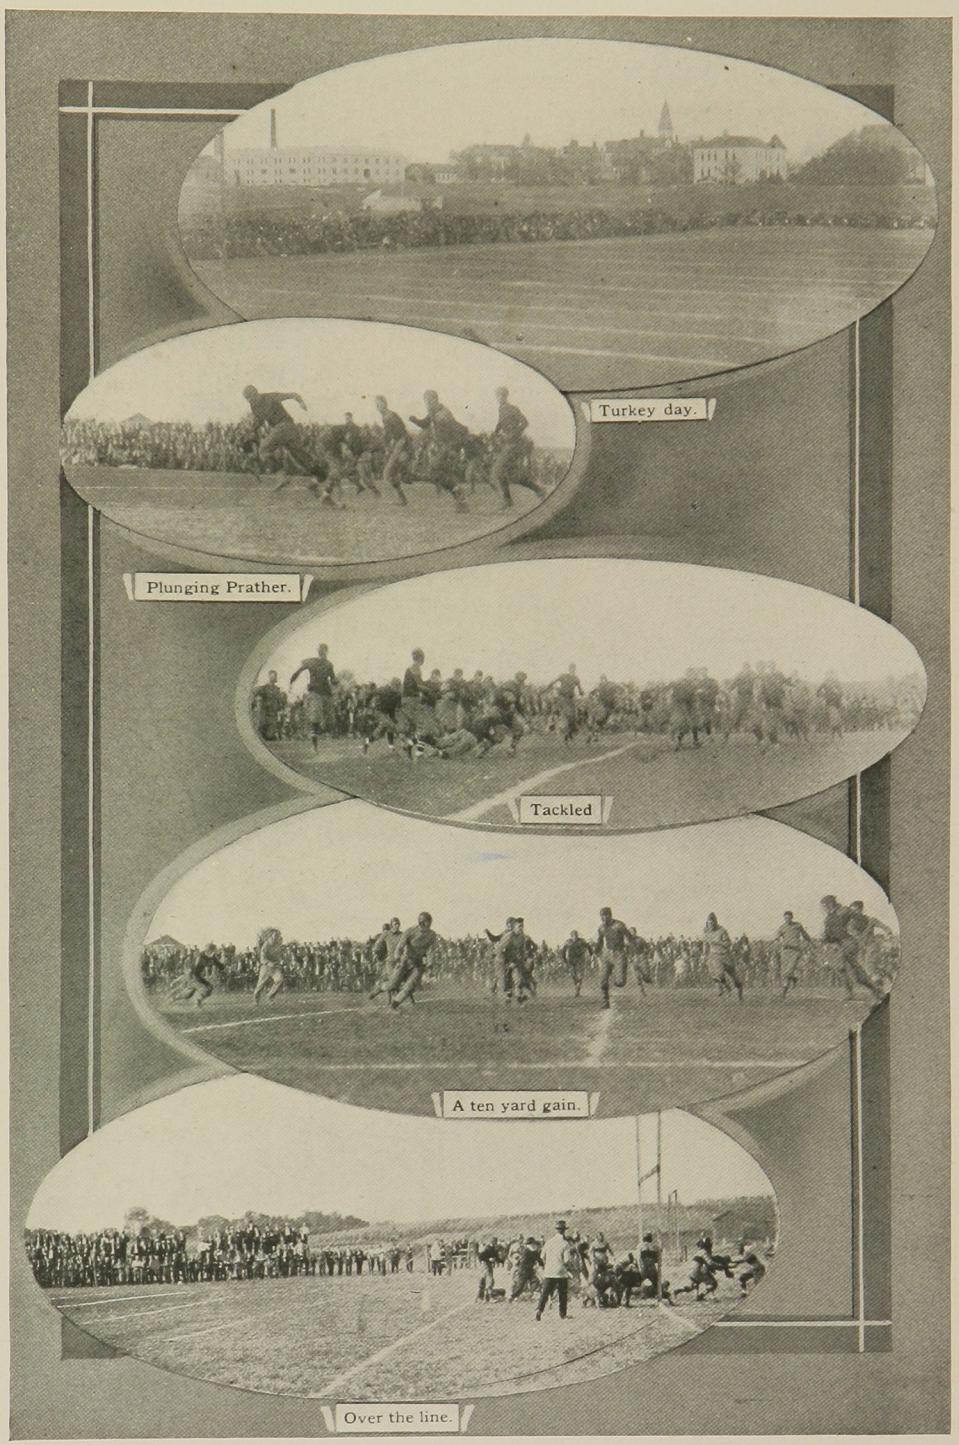

With eight victories and two defeats by teams not in the Kansas Conference, the Aggies were left with an undisputed claim to the State Championship, besides an enviable reputation outside of the Conference.

Seventeen letters were awarded for high "footballistic" standing to members of the squad. "Fritz" Loomis was then chosen by the worthy seventeen to lead them to victory in 1913.

A GOOD RECORD

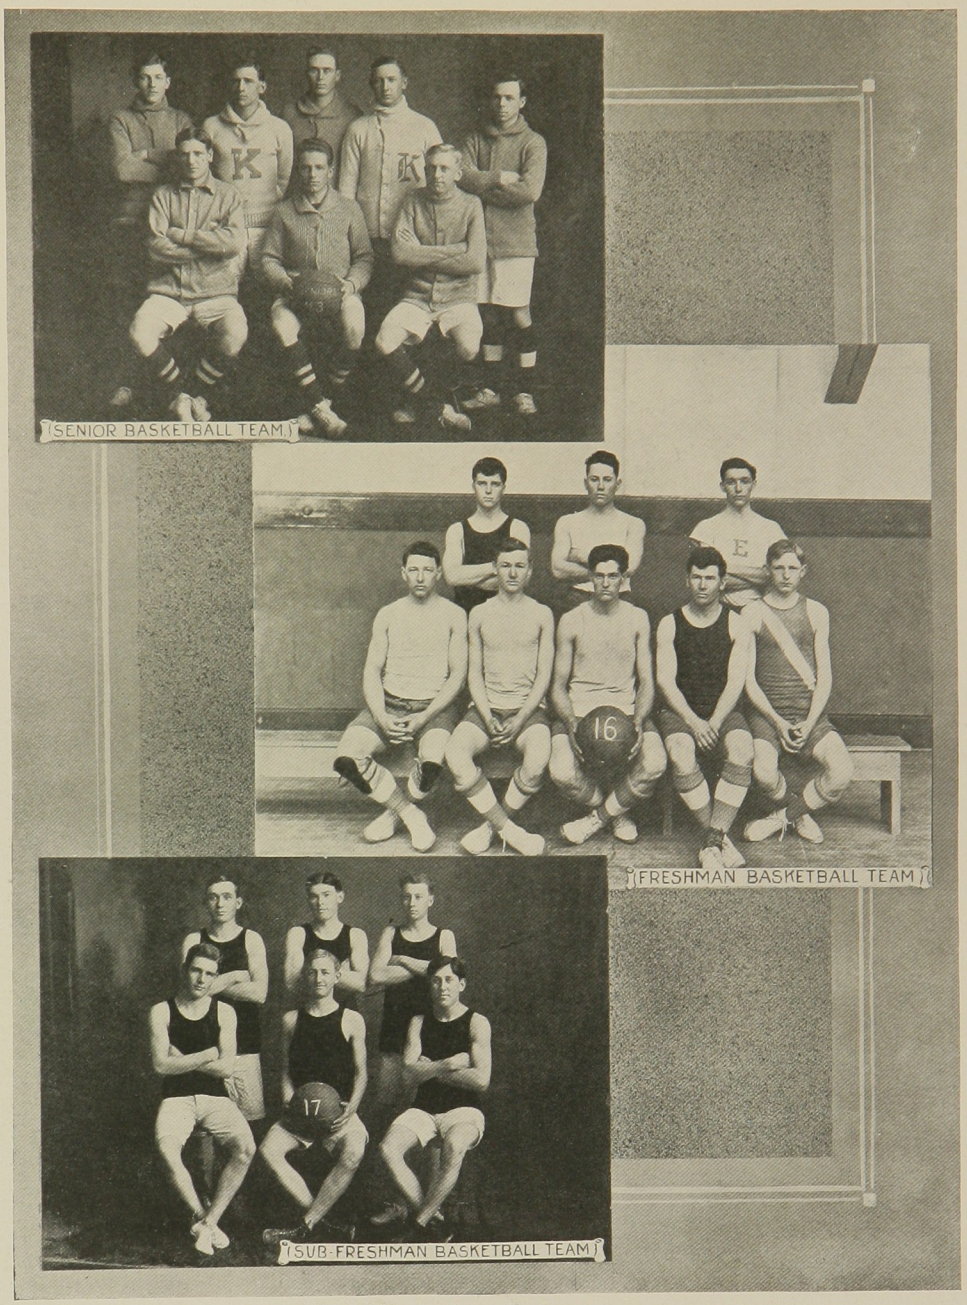

The Second Championship in a Year

THE basketball season of 1912-13 was without a doubt the most successful year, both financially and in the matter of games won, that the Aggies have experienced since the game was established at the Kansas State Agricultural College. To the newly inaugurated voluntary fee must be given the credit for the increased attendance and interest shown at the games. Scarcely a game was played on Nichols court when extra seats were not needed for spectators. This speaks well for basketball "pep."

The squad was under the leadership of Don McCallum, '14. It was his third year of Varsity ball, and as the curtain rolled down on his basketball career, many were the regrets expressed that he would not be on the squad another year. He led his team through a long series of victories which resulted in the annexation of the Kansas Conference championship. This was championship number two for this year, the other having been obtained in football.

Captain-elect Souders played his second year on the squad and merits the honor of leading the team to victory next year. He played at center this season and showed up as well as if he had been in his old position of forward. Other members of the squad were Jones, Shull, Root, Hutto, Broberg, and Vale. Each did his share toward bringing the coveted honors to Manhattan. A source of much delight to Aggie rooters was found in the two victories over the University of Kansas on the latter's own court. The Lawrence men then journeyed to Manhattan and turned the tables, beating the Aggies two straight. On the same trip that K. U. went down to defeat before us, another Missouri Valley team, sometimes called the Missouri Tigers, met two defeats on its own courts before the mighty Aggies. These victories over Missouri Valley Conference teams show that K. S. A. C. athletics are on a par with other Valley teams and that K. S. A. C. can be counted as an important factor in future Valley contests.

Track and Field

AT this writing, it is impossible to give a true forecast of the track and field meets. With "Cap" Bryan as coach and Louis Hutto captain of the squad, the Aggie chances are very hopeful. The indoor season was very short, the Aggies losing the only meet scheduled to Kansas University. The men did not show their best work early in the season. The relay team with a few picked men did good work at Kansas City, where some of the swiftest runners in the middle west were entered. Captain Hutto annexed the mile event at this meet.

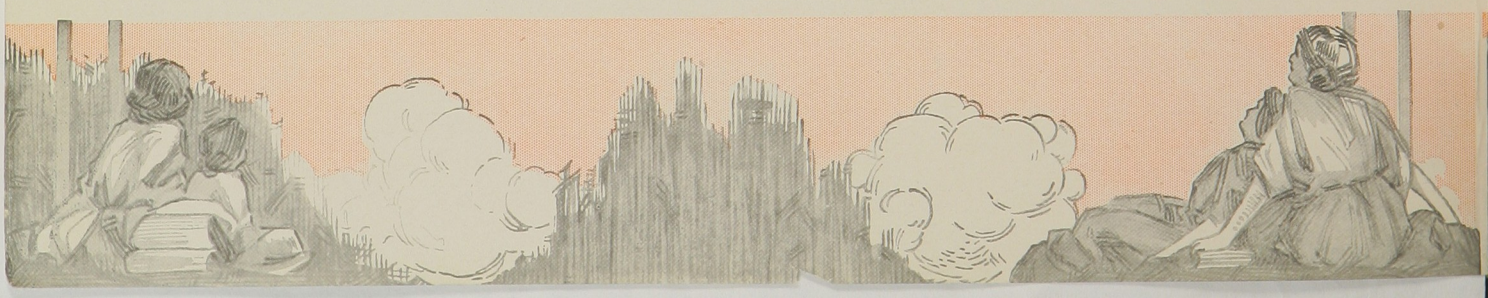

Indications as to the outcome of the season are very favorable at this time for the Aggie squad and it will be the task of next years book to record a successful season.

Baseball—1912

ON February 15, 1912, Coach Lowman issued his first call for baseball practice. In response to his call about thirty-five "would-be's" reported to display their abilities and inabilities at the national pastime. The spacious gymnasium afforded an excellent substitute for a real diamond, since the weather man strictly forbade any out-door indulgence in baseball until just a few days before the opening game. After many vigorous shakings and careful pruning by Captain "Red" Young and Coach Lowman, the team began to show signs of life and on April 3, after only three days of out-door practice, the "home boys" took the Missouri Tigers into camp to the tune of 2 to 0. Not content with this victory, they again proceeded the following day to "show" the boys from Missouri and this time were not content till they had amassed a total of fifteen to the opponents' five.

The next foe to invade the Aggie camp was the team from the Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical College. The game was hard fought, for five innings, but the terrific hitting of the Kansans struck terror to the hearts of the Oklahomans, and the Kansas Aggies romped away with the spoils, 10 to 5.

The Honorable "Zip" Zable next came to town to display his wares. He brought with him eight associates to encourage him at his task, but after his smoke had cleared away the Aggies were seen sprinting to the gymnasium with a 7 to 5 victory.

The next attraction at College Field was the Jayhawkers from Lawrence, rated as likely candidates for Missouri Valley Championship. The first game proved to be a "comedy of errors" on the part of K. U. and the Aggies brought home the bacon with an 8 to 2 score. The following day, however, the Aggies were for the first time of the season forced to bite the dust, K. U. winning 10 to 2, due mainly to the way in which "Rock Crusher" Ammons flourished his mighty club.

After these games followed a rather disastrous trip, from the standpoint of games won, but a trip on which some mighty good baseball was displayed by the Aggies. Two games were lost to K. U. by a score of 4 to 3—both of them being lost in the last half of the ninth inning. At Missouri the Aggies lost 7 to 3, chiefly because of poor base running. The team then returned home and the following day handed the Kansas Normals a 4 to 1 defeat after a hard pitchers' battle. In this game the Aggies made but two hits while the Normals had to be content with one. Fairmount then slipped up in the dark and ran away with a 4 to 3 victory, the reason for which has never been fully ascertained.

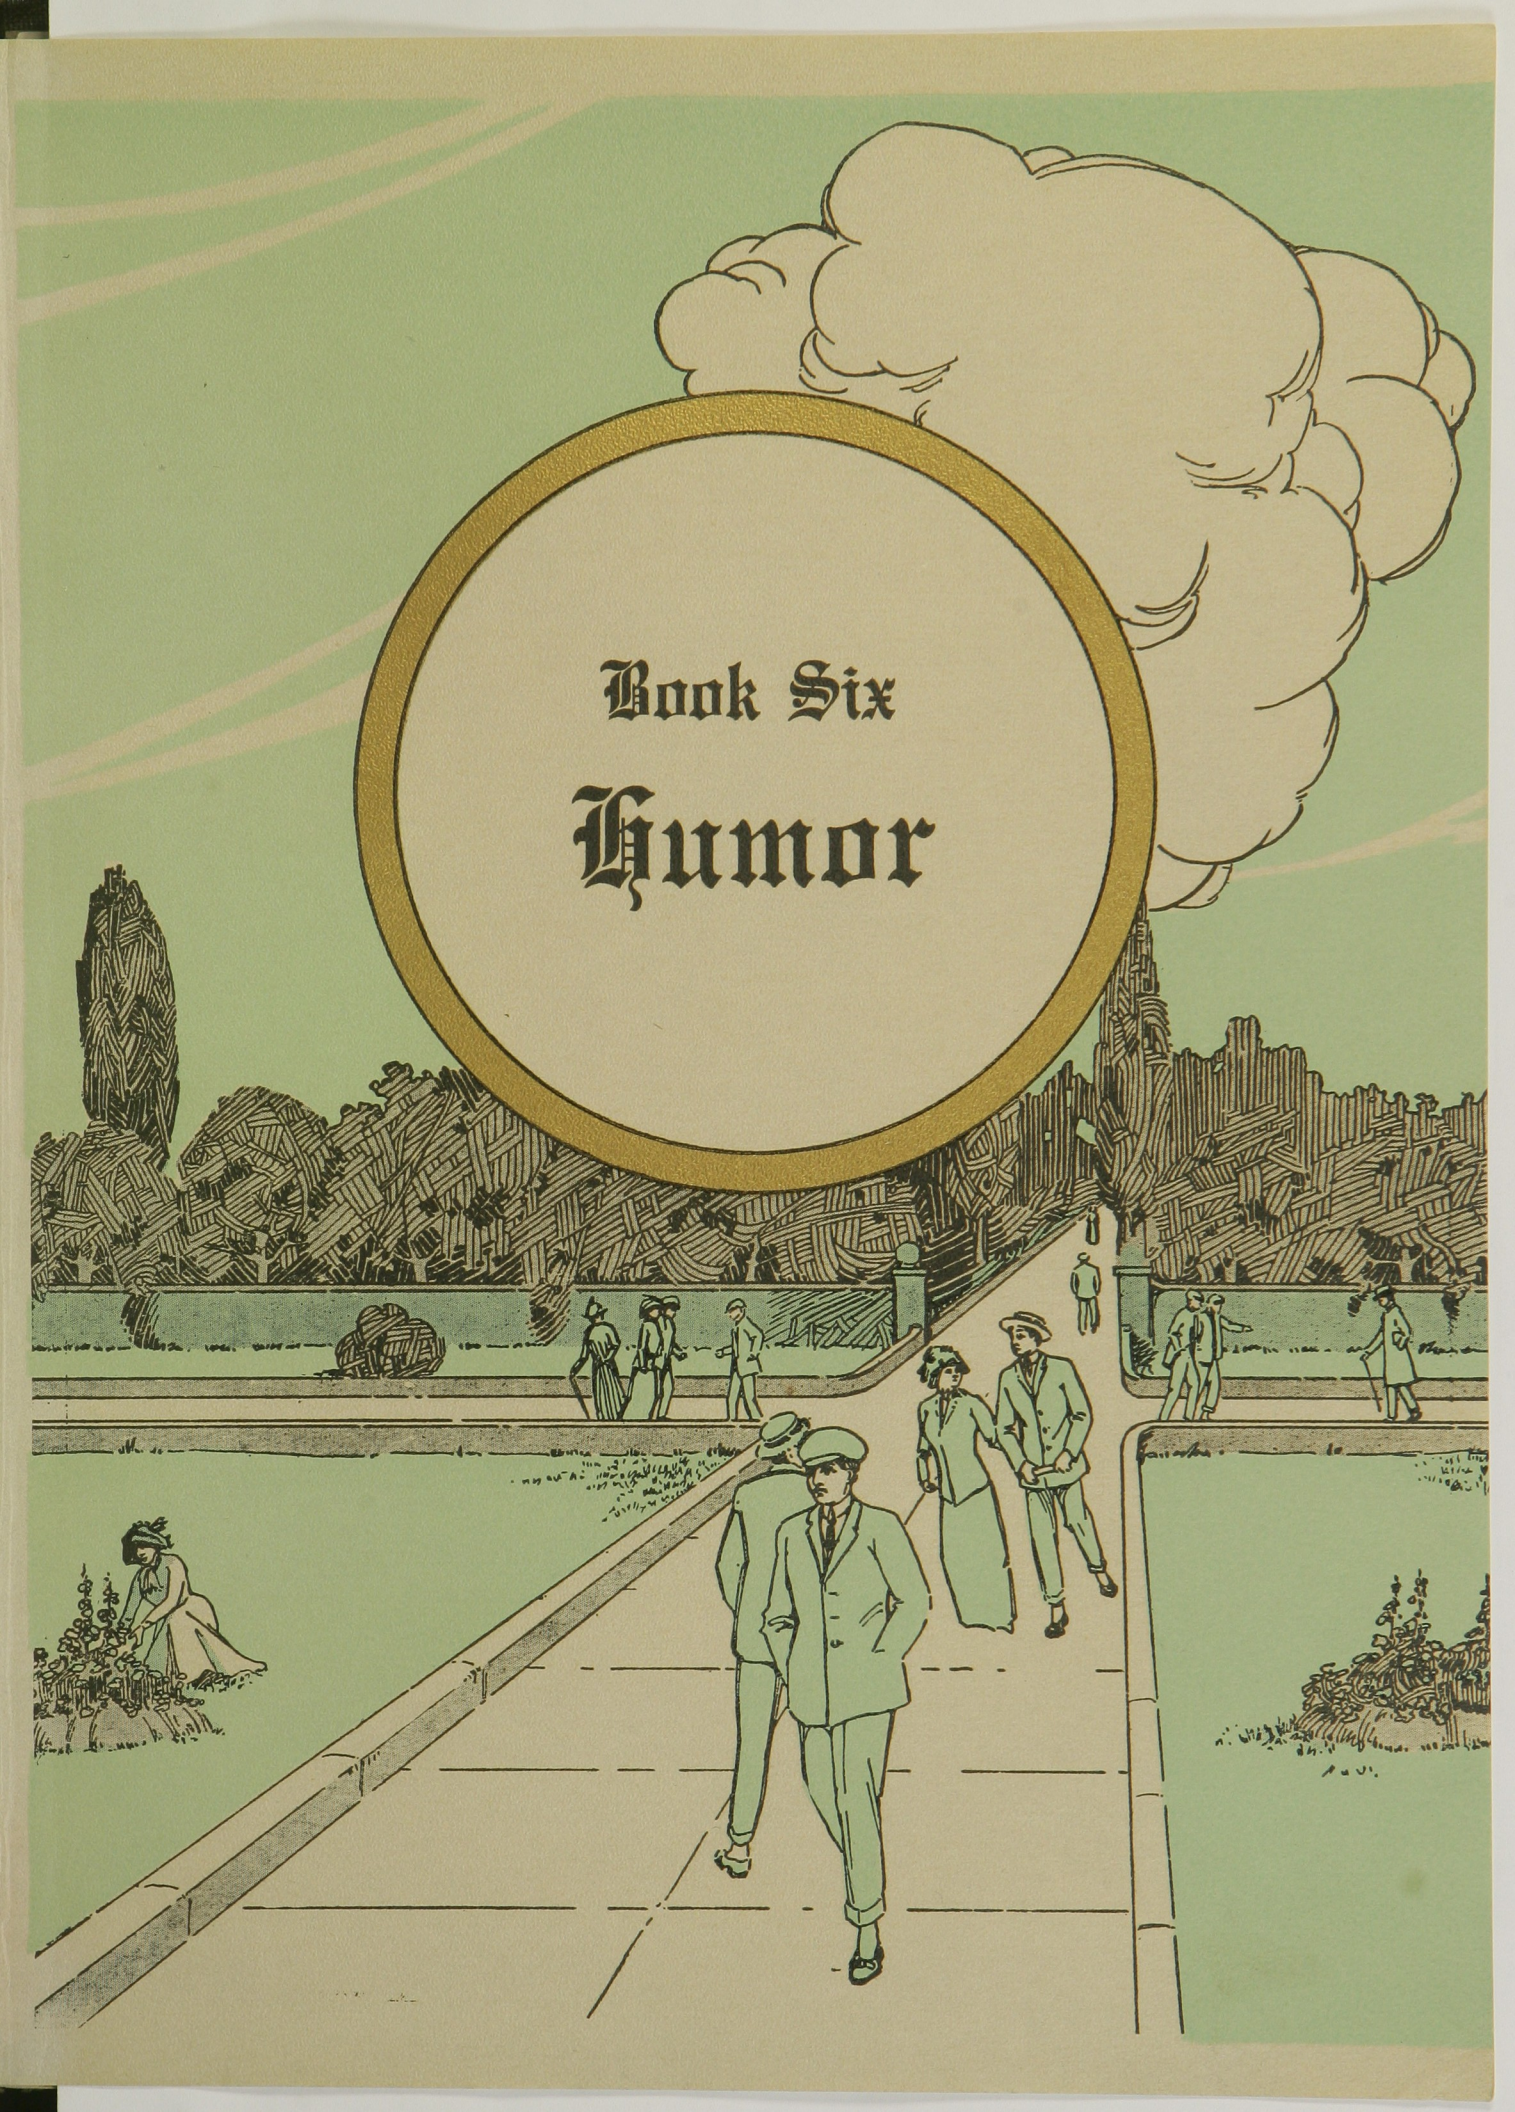

Following this affair, the Bethany Swedes from Lindsborg were subdued with an 8 to 4 victory by the Aggies. Then came a real live baseball team with the Chilloco Indians, who had to their credit a victory over St. Marys the previous day. After nine bitterly fought innings during which it was anybodys game, the Aggies succeeded in scalping the red men and made off with a 4 to 3 victory. Then Friends University of Wichita crept stealthily into camp and grabbed a 3 to 1 victory from the Aggies—another mystery which will probably never be solved.

The Aggies next proceeded to Baker University for a game, but fate was against them and after being out played at every point, Mr. Zabel and his gang copped the game in the ninth inning.

The crowning event of the year came on the twenty-eighth day of May, when Coach Quigley brought his all Missouri Valley aspirants to town. With the wind coursing across College field at sixty miles an hour, the two teams hooked up in a pitchers' duel. Until the last man was out in the ninth, it was anybody's game, but when the last Irish lad was laid safely on the shelf, the Aggies scampered off the field with a second victory over one of the classiest baseball teams in the Missouri Valley. This time the score was 3 to 2.

"Swud" Forsberg, the able backstop, was elected captain to pilot the 1913 Aggies. When Coach Lowman issued his call for practice in the Gym in February, 1913, forty men responded, among whom were eight K men. The prospects for a championship team were never better.

'Tis Ever Thus

When you think you're nicely settled
For a pleasant little talk,
And you think Miss Barnes' not looking,
Isn't it an awful shock?
And you hear the tap-tap-tapping,
And think she has been napping,
Perhaps you want to talk a while,
But—"Move on. Don't talk in the aisle."

When you do not know your lesson,
And you're called on to recite,
When you think you're bluffing finely,
Gee! but isn't a fright!
When Professor Iles rudely stops you
With a dark portentious frown,
"I don't believe you know this,
At my office, call around?"

When you've spent at least two hours
Studying for a history quizz,
And you think you know your lesson
Doesn't it just make you sizz
When Prof. Price begins to say
"Finish our reports today?"

Is Home Economics a Success?

(Editor's note—Our readers will remember the announcement made with regard to our plan. We are glad to print below excerpts from one hundred letters, the result of personal inquiry. The reader may decide for himself.)

1. No; I can't say as Marie has learned anything at College. She wants to light the supper table with candles, and she has already ruined one cream separator, studying its plumbing.
—Mrs. Samuel Snodgrass, Smithville.

2. My wife took the Home Economics Course. —Daniel Dyspepsia, St. George.

3. Though I fully believe in a College Education for women, I cannot say that I am satisfied with the results. I sent my daughter to college to acquire an education, yet I find that she has never studied Higher Calculus or Kinematics.
—Professor John Calibration Drydust.

4. I think, from experience, that college women do not have a proper conception of their place in the world. What Home Economist is there who would not marry that tobacco-chewing cigarette-smoking creature called man, if she had a chance? —Mrs. Sibeth, Wichita.

5. The only Home Economist I ever knew made her own hats and took pickles to church socials. —Gregory Grouch, Junction City.

6. I went to a funeral the other day. It was very sad. A poor old man of ninety-nine years, and the last of his family, was laid to rest. He had been failing for several years. It is said that he had married a Domestic Scientist in his youth. What more need be said?
—Regina Alvira Spifkins.

7. Her Most Serene Highness, the Queen of the Cannibal Islands, intsructs me to announce to your unmentionable effulgence that she considers Home Economics an unnecessary and expensive waste of time. —Masneter Kilani, Private Secretary.

8. My neighbor is one of them Home Economics. She belongs to five clubs and I take care of her four children. —Mrs. Mary Muchwork.

The other ninety-two letters will take up too much space, but we consider the above sufficient to prove the question. —Editor

One day he got just to Harriet's name when the bell rang, so he said "Miss D., I'll call on you tomorrow." The next afternoon he just reached the D's again when it was time for class to be dismissed. Harriet, thinking the joke was on her, went up to him the following day just before class, and said, "Well now, I did think you were a man of your word, you promised to call on me last 'evening' and you didn't do it." An Ode to a Microbe

You dear little microbe down there on the plate!
I look at you long through the glass,
And wonder if you're down on Migula's slate,
Or if you are out of his class.

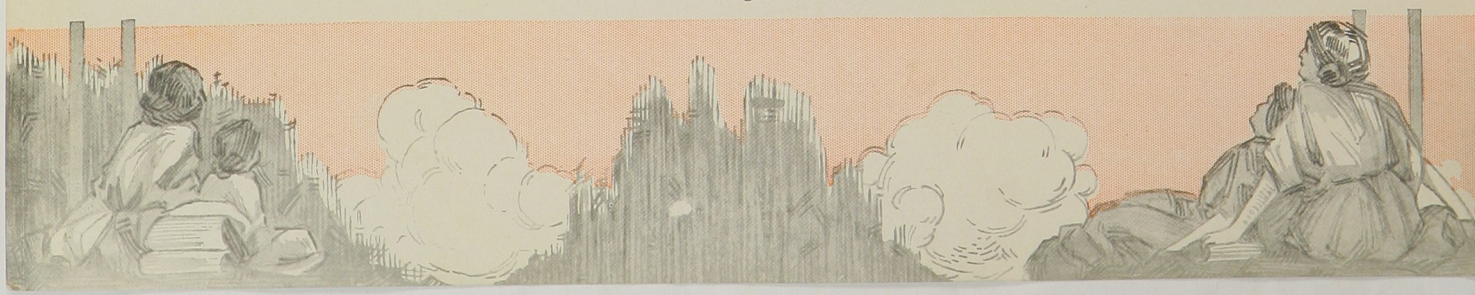

Thou sluggish B. Subtilis, Clinging in chains,
Could never be found far from home;
It takes a brave microbe with plenty of brains
To venture forth boldly alone.

Your translucent, viscid, fluorescent look
Shows a growth that is spreading and slimy,
And though in slant agar you can't get a look
Your reaction must be alkaliny.

How often I've seen you on gelatin stab
And thought you Bacillus Typhosus,
But when with the needle I gave you a dab
I found you were not so ferocious.

I've called you Sarcina and Lutea, Mike,
And put you in methylene blue;
I've thought you Spirillum alone on a hike,
But I never quite knew you were you.

But though I may look at and talk to you, Mike,
From me you have nothing to fear.
For I wouldn't know you from Adam, dear Mike—
I studied about you last year.

Ravings

Professor Kammeyer: In what form is gold shipped across the ocean?

Miss Newman: In bouillon.

Miss Humfeld's new system of grading—G-but late. P-but late, etc.

Senior Girl's Lament—O dear! I've lost my note book and now I don't know anything.

Miss Williams—Girls, please remember, all water pipes should be round and hollow.

Ethel Michaels in History of Education—"Well, girls, I commenced with Greece and ended with Bacon.

A Junior Girl—Is it the waves in the water tank that makes the water spout up in the fountain?

Miss Ross in Millinery—What are the popular colors this year?

Miss Pray—Cerise (See Rees).

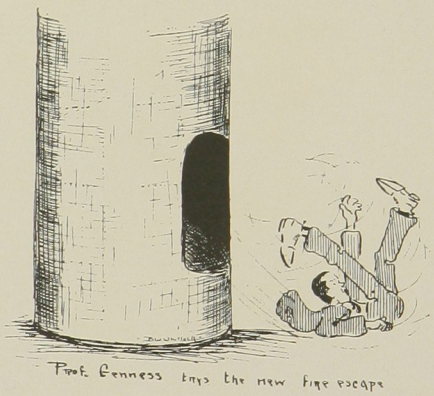

Mike Ahearn in Gardening: Miss Deitz, what kind of tree would you plant along a drive?

Miss Deitz: A popular tree.

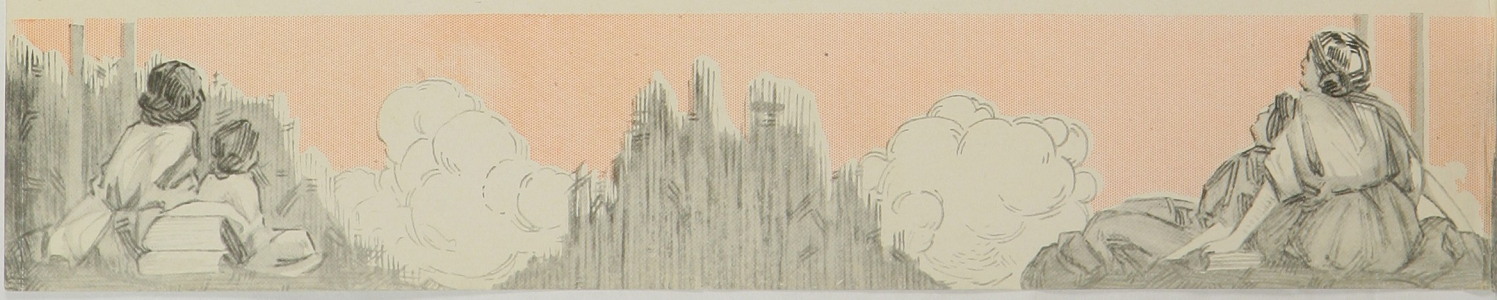

Miss Meyers in Gardening: Is this sort of balsam the same kind they put in whiskey?

Mike: I don't know. I never spoil my whiskey that way.

Mrs. Van Zile: I can remember, girls, when hearts sold for five cents apiece.

Too True

Rock-a-bye Senior on the tree top
As long as you study, the cradle will rock,
But if you stop digging, the cradle will fall
And down will come Senior, diploma and all.

Bright Junior: (Not clear as to his lesson) "That's what the text books said anyway."

Instructor: "I don't want the text book, I want you."

Bright Junior: "Well you've got me."

Professor Cortelyou: "Warum Kommen Sie Hier?"

Student in German 1: "What? Who combed my hair?"

Bertha M: Looking at her first returned quiz paper, "Well, I guess G means "Gracious." (Very probable).

I wonder if it's so that that that is not, is not that that that is, or is it just the other way?

"A VISIT TO CROSBY'S

HAS AN EDUCATIONAL VALUE"

Here the trend of the newer fashions find earliest reflection; here the newest products of the greatest mills and factories of Europe and America find first representation; here big lots of goods bought at under their value, as concessions present themselves are bought for speedy dispersal.

Recent improvements and the addition of two buildings permit us to proclaim our store the largest in the state. A distinction we are proud of, indeed.

It always has been and always will be our purpose to make it the store accomodating—the homelike store for everybody. We will serve you well when you come in person and just as well for anything you may inquire about through the mail.

And so we invite you to come and bring your friends, that they may enjoy with you the facilities we offer for pleasurable profitable shopping every day in the year.
